

CONSIDER A CAREER IN THE TEXAS BIOTECHNOLOGY, LIFE SCIENCES AND HEALTHCARE INDUSTRY

IF YOU...

- Like learning about the human body
- Like working on science experiments at school
- Want to help people feel better about their health
- Want to work in a high-tech lab someday

EDUCATION OPTIONS:

INDUSTRY RECOGNIZED CERTIFICATE | ASSOCIATE DEGREE | BACHELOR'S DEGREE | MASTER'S DEGREE

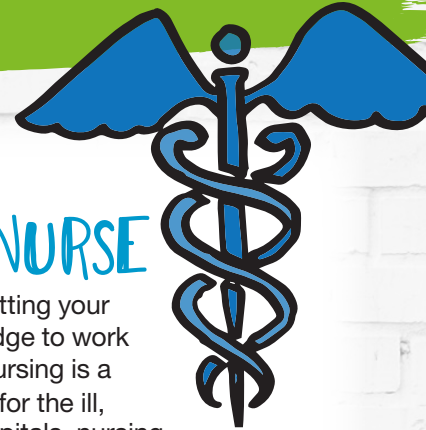

OPPORTUNITIES

- DENTAL HYGIENICS
- RADIOLOGICAL TECHNOLOGY
- SPEECH-LANGUAGE PATHOLOGY
- RESPIRATORY THERAPY
- PHYSICAL THERAPY

CAREER PROFILE:

REGISTERED NURSE

If you have a passion for putting your health and medical knowledge to work while also helping others, nursing is a great option. A nurse cares for the ill, injured, and disabled in hospitals, nursing homes, and private homes. You can become a nurse by completing an associate degree, getting a nursing certification, or even attaining a professional nursing degree.

Essential skills for the career include:

- Always looking for ways to help people
- The ability to monitor and assess the performance of yourself and others to make an improvement
- Giving full attention to what people are saying and doing

Average Entry Wage: $52,528

THE INDUSTRY IS EXPECTED TO EMPLOY

646,000

IN TEXAS BY 2026

For more information about Texas career opportunities, visit jobsyall.com

TEXAS
WORKFORCE SOLUTIONS

A proud partner of the American Job Center network